CALL MEETING ON DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL

Harding Association Executive Committee Plans To Fix Date

FINAL WORK UNDER WAY

Session Will Be Held Friday ight To Discuss Arrangements for Ceremony

The date for the dedication of the Harding Memorial will likely be determined at a meeting of the executive committee of the memorial association to be held Friday night, it was said today by Hoke Donithen, chairman of the committee.

The meeting will be held in Donithen's office on North Main st.

Work on the memorial, with the exception of planting of shrubbery, is practically completed, Mr. Donithen said today. It is expected that workmen will complete their work this week. Sodding of the plot in the rear of the memorial and the cleaning of the marble are the only things remaining to be finished, according to Mr. Donithen.

Original plans called for the dedication of the memorial in June. The address was to be delivered by President Coolidge. Inability to complete arrangements last month necessitated the carrying over of the ceremonies until a later date.

150,000 SEE MAN GO OVER NIAGARA

Lussier Is Third Person To Make Falls Trip and Live To Tell Tale

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 5—Jean Albert Lussier, 26, a gay French Canadian of Springfield, Mass., is the third person to go over the mighty Niagara Falls and live to tell the tale.

More than 150,000 spectators who lined both the American and Canadian banks of the Niagara river yesterday, saw him defy death and successfully plunge 170 feet over Horseshoe Falls in a huge red rubber ball.

Lussier had announced he would leave the ball, with himself sealed inside, dropped into the upper river from an airplane. American and Canadian officials made every effort to prevent the stunt.

Instead of being dropped from a plane, the ball was towed out into the upper river from Cayuga Island by a motor boat. Lussier was strapped within the inner ball—there was a space between the inner and outer balls with two score air compartments—and made himself comfortable with several pillows. The ball started down the river slowly but gained great speed as it neared the brink.

When the ball was split open with a knife, Lussier was found sitting inside with a blank look on his face. Then he smiled. He said he suffered no ill effects.

William ("Red") Hill, known to thousands as "the hero of Niagara Falls" because of his many rescues, was waiting in a rowboat in the lower river and towed Lusier to shore.

Fire Chief to Celebrate Twenty-fifth Year as Head of Local Stations, Friday

ON Friday, Fire Chief Thomas J. McFarland, will celebrate his twenty-fifth anniversary as chief of the Marion fire department.

No where else in the state perhaps, if not in the nation, is there a fire chief who has attained a higher place in the confidence of the people of his city, than has Chief McFarland during his 25 years as head of the Marion department.

Prompted by but one motive—that of bringing the department to the point of eficiency that would assure the people of the city the greatest degree of protection with incidently the lowest insurance rates, the chief has fought a constant battle for his department. But his fighting has always been in the open and with all of the cards on the table.

Known as a square-dealing, two-fisted, fighting Irishman, the chief has won the respect and admiration of not only those of this city, but of fire officials throughout the state. His election as president of the State Fire Chiefs association at Mansfield last year and the presentation by the chiefs, of a beautiful set of silver at the conclusion of the recent convention, were silent tributes of the respect and esteem in which he is held.

Not only is he regarded with sincere respect as a man, but for his efficiency as a fire fighter, as well. So well has his ability along this line been known in the state, it was rumored that he had been offered the position as head of the fire department in a much larger city. This would neither be affirmed or denied by the chief.

All of this, however, fades into insignificance with the chief, when he proudly points out that during the entire 25 years as head of the department, he had never lost a fireman as the result of an accident at a fire. In fact none had ever been seriously injured, and this in view of the fact that the departments in the quarter of a century had responded to 3,425 alarms which included fighting fires which produced single losses as great as $178,000.

Chief McFarland was the sixth

Ohio Hospitals and Morgues Show Results of Costly Celebration

Morgues, funeral establishments, hospitals and private sickrooms today gave evidence of Ohio's participation in the country's 152nd annual celebration of the signing of the declaration of independence.

Traffic fatalities led the list in today's roundup, while drownings and suicides contributed.

The toll in other sections of the country was in proportion with Ohio.

Fireworks and firearms added their usual toll of maimed and injured celebrants despite the precautionary laws of most cities.

A summary of the toll in Ohio follows:

Fireworks Accidents

Toledo: Baby Ruth Brick ate a firecracker. She required medical attention. Doris Duquette, 5, and Dora Metroff burned while playing with firecrackers.

Port Clinton: Kimball Hill, 5, eyes burned, firecrackers.

Dayton: Joe Tilton, 6. Toy pistol didn't make enough noise. He added a dynamite cap, and lost three fingers.

Lorain: Dorothy Baker, 9, may lose sight of right eye. Roman candle.

Cleveland: Mary Salata, 18, struck in right thigh by bullet fired by celebrant.

Wadsworth: J. Hartman, 27, face and right eye burned. Paper wad from blank cartridge pistol hit him.

Springfield: William Record, critically injured, when patrolman fires at him, thinking the cartridges are blank.

Country's Death Total For Day Near 150

THE yearly sacrifice of human life at the altar of Independence Day celebrations mounted close to 150 men, women and children throughout the country, from drowning, heat and fireworks.

The greatest toll of life from the terrific heat wave, that spread over various sections of the country, occurred in New England where 14 deaths were reported.

Nearly 100 persons were drowned at sea resorts, on lakes, rivers or other waters. Deaths from fireworks, the most hazardous means of celebrating by the children of the country, reached a total of at least 15.

The hottest Fourth of July Kansas City has known in 10 years resulted in the death of three persons by heat, while New York City reported four deaths and the sections of the country at least eight more. One drowned and another death from fireworks were also reported from Kansas City.

In Pennsylvania and border communities deaths from fireworks, drowning, heat and lightning were reported as seventeen.

There were also upwards of 100 persons injured by premature explosions and careless handling of fourth of July explosives.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, jr., who visited Marion recently on his way from Reno, Nev., to New York City was married in Reno Tuesday to Mrs. Mary Wier Logan within a few minutes after she obtained a divorce from her former husband according to news dispatches from the west.

Vanderbilt last broke into print about a week ago when he signed over his inheritance of more than a million dollars to his creditors in his defunct newspaper enterprise.

Half an hour after Mrs. Logan had obtained her divorce she reentered the court room with Vanderbilt and took the marriage vows before Judge George A. Bartlett, who granted her divorce.

ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED AT NEARBY TOWNS

Marion Experiences One of Most "Safe and Sane" Fourths in History

While Marion was experiencing one of the most "safe and sane" Fourth in the history of local Independence Day celebrations yesterday, nearby towns and cities were not so fortunate in surviving the day without accident from fireworks and accidents.

No accidents either from fireworks or from the heavy traffic on the roads yesterday were reported in the city. Local fire departments reported an idle day in regard to calls as a result of fireworks celebrations and police records failed to reveal any trace of persons violating the fireworks ordinance.

Interest in the Fourth, locally, was centered on the fireworks display at Crystal Lake Park, last night, where an estimated crowd of 12,000 persons gathered. Approximately 15,000 persons were reported to have visited the park during the day.

Loses Eye

The most seriously injured in accidents reported in nearby towns, was Charles Brocklesby jr., nine-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brocklesby, of Upper Sandusky, who sustained injuries which cost him the sight of his right eye when a firecracker exploded as he bent over it, at his home, about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Earlier in the day John Heffelfinger, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heffelinger of Upper Sandusky, was badly burned about his face and the upper part of his body, when a homemade cannon ex-

BURTON HONORS PRES. HARDING IN SPEECH HERE

Former Chief Executive Praised as Man and Public Official by Congressman

KIWANIS SPEAKER

Address by Cleveland Legislator First of Series Planned by Local Club

Praise for the late President Harding both as a man and a public official, was one of the predominant notes of an address given here today by Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland, former United States Senator from Ohio, who spoke following the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club at Hotel Harding.

Congressman Burton based his tribute to Marion's most distinguished son on knowledge gained from personal acquaintanceship and contact, in addition to the late president's record in public life. The eulogy was worded in a large measure, in the same language used by Mr. Burton when he spoke eloquently in Harding's memory at the Republican national convention four years ago.

The kindly, human qualities of Harding's character were extolled by the speaker.

"Every one to whom he was a friend and to whom he gave a friendly word or for whom he performed a friendly act should place a flower at his tomb," the congressman said.

Evidence of Leadership

In all of his activities in public life Harding displayed an exceptional gift of leadership and in every assemblage was a predominating figure, Mr. Burton said. This trait was especially apparent, he stated during the international conference on limitation of armaments, one of the outstanding features of the Harding administration.

There, among the dignitaries of the various nations participating, President Harding was manifestly preeminent, the congressman said. Mr. Burton told of hearing different phases of the armament question discussed by such speakers as Briand of France, Balfour of England and Hughes of America.

"When Harding came into the conference he so seemed to be a leader of men that he carried away honors in

HICKMAN MUST DIE, HIGH COURT RULES

Appeal to Supreme Tribunal of U. S. Only Hope of Kidnaper

San Francisco, July 5—William Edward Hickman must hang for the kidnaping and murder of little Marion Parker of Los Angeles.

In a decision today, the California state supreme court upheld the death sentence passed on the youthful Kansas City slayer, following his being found sane by a jury in Los Angeles.

Hickman had entered a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity" and following his being found sane and sentenced to death his attorneys attacked the constitutionality of the law under which he was sentenced to die.

Barring a successful appeal to the United States supreme court, which his attorneys some time ago indicated would be taken in event of an unfavorable decision on their appeal to the high state tribunal, Hickman will go to his death on the gallows at San Quentin prison where he now occupies a cell in "condemned row."

"We are firmly convinced," said the decision handed down by the state supreme court, "that no right of the defendant guaranteed by the state constitution was intentionally or at all affected by his being compelled to proceed to trial under the pleas of not guilty as recently entered."

SHOOTING CASE SUSPECT BOUND TO GRAND JURY

John Mahaffey Held Under $1,000 Bond After Hearing

Charged with shooting with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of Raymond Quigley, John Mahaffey, former Erie railroad detective, was bound over to the Marion county jury under $1,000 bond by Municipal Judge William R. Martin.

Testimony given by the accused man's son, John, who stated that he saw his father on South Prospect st. a few minutes after six shots had been fired through a window at the home of Mahaffey's divorced wife, was the outstanding development of the hearing.

Questioned by Police Prosecutor Carter Patton, the son said he saw his father driving north on South Prospect st. just a few minutes before he discovered the shooting. He also said that on several occasions he had discovered his father in the yard at the rear of the Mahaffey home and on each occasion Mahaffey had fled when discovered. The boy also testified that his father on one occasion at least, had followed him and his mother, driving his car slowly along the curb behind them. Under cross examination by Judge Grant D. Mouser, attorney for Mahaffey, John said so far as he knew, his father had never called at his home since the divorce had been granted.

Former Wife on Stand

The first [illegible] episode which took place at the Mahaffey home several nights previous to the shooting when a brick was thrown through a window while Quigley was calling, was attributed to her divorced husband by Mrs. Mahaffey while on the stand. INSECT SEASON NOW HERE

Health Authorities Recommend Use of Fly Tox for Security

Science has proved conclusively that the fly is one of mankind's worst enemies. As a carrier of ill sorts it has no equal. They transmit more than thirty different diseases, say eminent authorities.

FLY-TOX not only kills insects easily and quickly, but it has other desirable features as well. It will not stain. FLY-TOX is harmless to mankind and animals. It leaves a fleeting odor that is cleanly and fragrant.

This marvelous insecticide was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. It is a scientific product made to meet today's requirements in a household insecticide.

It is a clear, clean and pure liquid put up in bottles with the blue label. Many imitations are seeking to take advantage of popularity gained by FLY-TOX. Do not be misled. Demand the genuine FLY-TOX.—Adv.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?
A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists say nowadays, that during the first seven months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid per day or six ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day, and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed baby. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sugar water often relieves his fretful, crying, upset and restless spells. It doesn't give him a few drops of Dr. Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., being physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The 35 cent bottles contain thirty five dose.—Adv.

The Mystery at Styles

THE YEAR'S MOST BAFFLING SERIAL STORY

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

CHAPTER 34

On the morning of July 17th, consternation reigned, immediately after breakfast, when her son, Mrs. Inglethorp read her new will. This will was found in the grate of her bedroom the following morning, but evidence came to light which showed that it had been drawn up in favor of Mr. Lawrence Cavendish.

Mrs. Inglethorp already made a will in favor of her husband, since her marriage, but—as Poirot wagged an expressive finger—the prisoner was not aware that this will had induced the deceased to make a fresh will, with the old one destroyed. She could not say. She was not present, and might possibly have destroyed the former one; or—this seemed more likely—she may have told him that it was revoked, as there had been some talk on the subject.

Mrs. Inglethorp was not always very well versed in legal knowledge. She had about a year before, executed a will in favor of the prisoner. He would call evidence to show that it was the prisoner who ultimately handed his stepmother her coffee on the fatal night.

Later in the evening, he had sought admission to her room, on which occasion, no doubt, he found an opportunity of destroying the will which, as far as he knew, would render the one in his favor valid.

The prisoner had been arrested in consequence of the discovery, in his room, by Detective Inspector Japp—a most brilliant officer—of the identical phial of strychnine which had been sold at the village chemist's to the supposed Mr. Inglethorp on the day before the murder. It would be for the jury to decide whether or no these damning facts constituted an overwhelming proof of the prisoner's guilt.

And, subtly implying that a jury which did not so decide, was quite unthinkable, Mr. Philips sat down and wiped his forehead.

The first witnesses for the prosecution were mostly those who had been called at the inquest, the medical evidence being again taken first.

Sir Ernest Heavywether, who was famous all over England for the unscrupulous manner in which he bullied witnesses, only asked two questions.

"I take it, Dr. Bauerstein, that strychnine, as a drug, acts quickly?"

"Yes."

"And that you are unable to account for the delay in this case?

"Yes."

"Thank you."

Mr. Mace identified the phial handed him by counsel as that sold by him to "Mr. Inglethorp." Pressed, he admitted that he only knew Mr. Inglethorp by sight. He had never spoken to him. The witness was not cross-examined.

Alfred Inglethorp was called, and denied having purchased the poison. He also denied having quarreled with his wife. Various witnesses testified to the accuracy of these statements.

The gardeners' evidence, as to the witnessing of the will was taken, and then Dorcas was called.

Dorcas, faithful to her "young gentlemen," denied strenuously that it could have been John's voice she heard, and resolutely declared, in the teeth of everything, that it was Mr. Inglethorp who had been in the boudoir with her mistress.

A rather wistful smile passed across the face of the prisoner in the dock. He knew only too well how useless her gallant defiance was, since it was not the object of the defense to deny this point. Mrs. Cavendish, of course, could not be called upon to give evidence against her husband.

After various questions on other matters, Mr. Philips asked:

"In the month of June last, do you remember a parcel arriving for Mr. Lawrence Cavendish from Parkson's?

Dorcas shook her head.

"I don't remember, sir. It may have come, but Mr. Lawrence was away from home part of June."

"In the event of a parcel arriving for him while he was away, what would be done with it?"

"It would either be put in his room or sent on after him."

"By you?"

"No, sir, I should leave it on the hall table. It would be Miss Howard who would attend to anything like that."

Evelyn Howard was called and, after being examined on other points, was questioned as to the parcel.

"I don't remember. Lots of parcels come. Can't remember one special one."

"You don't know if it was sent after Mr. Lawrence Cavendish to Wales, or whether it was put in his room.

"Don't think it was sent after him. Should have remembered it if it was."

"Supposing a parcel arrived addressed to Mr. Lawrence Cavendish, and afterwards it disappeared, should you remark its absence?"

"No, don't think so. I should think some one had taken charge of it."

"I believe, Miss Howard, that it was you who found this sheet of brown paper?" He held up the same dusty piece which Poirot and I had examined in the morning-room at Styles.

"Yes, I did."

"How did you come to look for it?"

The Belgian detective who was employed on the case asked me to search for it."

"Where did you eventually discover it?"

"On the top of—of—a wardrobe."

"On top of the prisoner's wardrobe?"

"I—I believe so."

"Did you find it yourself?"

"Yes."

"Then you must know where you found it?"

"Yes, it was on the prisoner's wardrobe."

"That is better."

An assistant from Parkson's, theatrical costumers, testified that on June 20th, they had supplied a black beard to Mr. L. Cavendish, as requested. It was ordered by letter, and a postal order was enclosed. No, they had not kept the letter. All transactions were entered in their books. They had sent the beard, as directed, to "L. Cavendish, Esq., Styles Court."

Sir Ernest Heavywether rose pompously.

"Where was the letter written from?"

"From Styles Court."

"The same address to which you sent the parcel?"

"Yes."

"And the letter came from there?"

"Yes."

Like a beast of prey, Heavywether fell upon him:

"How do you know?"

"I—I don't understand."

"How do you know that letter came from Styles? Did you notice the postmark?"

"No—but—"

"Ah, you did not notice the postmark! And yet you affirm so confidently that it came from Styles. It might, in fact, have been any postmark?"

"Y—es."

"In fact, the letter, though written on stamped notepaper, might have been posted from anywhere. From Wales, for instance?"

The witness admitted that such might be the case, and Sir Ernest signified that he was satisfied.

Elizabeth Wells, second housemaid at Styles, stated that after she had gone to bed she remembered that she had bolted the front door, instead of leaving it on the latch as Mr. Inglethorp had requested. She had accordingly gone downstairs again to rectify her error. Hearing a slight noise in the west wing, she had peered along along the passage, and had seen Mr. John Cavendish knocking at Mrs. Inglethorp's door.

Sir Ernest Heavywether made short work of her, and under his unmerciful bullying she contradicted herself hopelessly, and Sir Ernest sat down again with a satisfied smile on his face.

With the evidence of Annie, as to the candle grease on the floor, and as to seeing the prisoner take the coffee into the boudoir, the proceedings were adjourned until the following day.

ONLY 10 SECONDS MAKES GARBAGE PAILS SPOTLESS

New Method Dissolves Muck and Grease Like Snow From a Hot Stove

Ends All Scrubbing and Scouring—Also Disinfects

Modern housewives now follow the example of great hotels and hospitals in cleaning and disinfecting garbage pails and cans. The new method is simple, easy and quick.

Simply do this. To every quart of steaming water you pour in the garbage pail or can, add approximately one tablespoonful of Red Seal Lye. Swash with a long-handled mop for a moment, then empty. The pail or can will be cleaned, disinfected, purified. No scouring or scrubbing whatever.

Red Seal Lye is needed. It is pure lye, the strongest, fastest acting and purest made. It melts grease and muck like snow from a hot stove.

Note: Much of the odor and sickness which attract flies to garbage pails will be eliminated if each morning you shake a little of this same Red Seal Lye on the refuse in the can. Red Seal Lye is so strong and pure it will retard fermentation of refuse and the formation of acids which attack and rust the can.

Clean up your mind you will never grease another garbage pail as long as you live. Put down "Red Seal Lye" on your grocery list now, while you are thinking about it.

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen Catches a Glimpse of Madge

JUNIOR'S whoop of pleasure at his presents brought so beaming a smile to Philip Veritzen's face that I decided to forego the apology I had intended for the child's ill-mannered ignoring of the giver in his delight at the gifts.

My small son, however, has his father's facility in effective contrition, and the first rush of his enthusiasm over, he looked up at my employer with a charmingly apologetic smile.

"They're all so bully that I forgot to say 'thank you' for them," he said. "Will it do, now?"

"You don't have to say it at all," Mr. Veritzen assured him. "I am more than repaid at seeing that you like them."

"You bet I like 'em," Junior responded promptly. "Aunt Katherine, may I have a bite of every kind of fruit there is?"

The little nurse laughed, but her voice held the note of authority which Junior has learned to obey without question.

"Of course, but not all at once," she said. "And for some of them, you must wait. But just now, you may take your choice of an orange, an apple or some grapes."

"Grapes!" Junior decided with explicit "I can have apples and oranges any old time, but grapes are something else again."

"Not apples and oranges like these, Junior," Katherine said as she took a cluster of grapes from the basket, while my horrified murmur of "Junior!" was lost in Mr. Veritzen's laughter.

"That's the way I feel about grapes too, Junior," he said, drawing a chair close to the bed and sitting down. "Now, while your grapes are prepared for you—they should be washed you know," he said over his shoulder to Katherine, and I saw the little nurse bite her lips in the effort to suppress a laugh. With equally bromidic effect he might have advised her to see that Junior washed his hands and brushed his teeth each day.

"Until your grapes are ready," he began again, "suppose we see how some of these things work?"

"Oh-h!" Junior sat up so excitedly that Katherine, already at the door with the grapes, spoke quickly.

"If you are not quiet, Junior, I shall have to send Mr. Veritzen away, and the toys, too."

"Oh! I'll be awful good," my son promised in a panic, and obeying a signaled nod from Katherine, I piled the pillows behind my little son so that, though he was in a sitting posture, his back was fully supported by the cushions.

I was moving away when Junior caught at my hand.

"Sit down here, Mother," he coaxed, patting a place beside him on the bed, and I could not resist his plea, though I felt decidedly uncomfortable because I was so close to Philip Veritzen's chair that we might as well have been sitting on the same sofa.

From the parcels which Otto had unwrapped and left on a table, Mr. Veritzen produced a most marvelous piece of mechanism, a model of a big ship, from the deck of which two small airplanes, manned with tiny aviators in aviation togs, regularly arose circled the ship and returned again.

It took close scrutiny to see that the effect was produced by wires, almost invisible, yet so strong that they never failed in their task of supporting the tiny silver planes which seemed indeed to be soaring through space.

Under Mr. Veritzen's directions, I was steadying the large and complicated toy upon the bedside used for our young invalid's meals, while he set in motion the mechanism controlling it. Junior's eyes were fixed raptly upon me, and the uncomfortable thought crossed my mind that we presented a decidedly domestic picture.

The door opened, and I looked up a bit abashed at the amusement I expected to see in Katherine's face. But my little knowwoman's eyes were not the ones I faced. Dicky stood in the doorway.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN I woke up this morning Jubilee was standing up with his front legs and sitting on the bed with his hind legs and looking at me with his head turned kinda sideways like he was trying to recognize me with my face all wrapped up from the Fourth of July, and when I got up and looked in my piece of looking glass I was surprized that my face didn't break it some more. I took the rags off as careful as I could and they didn't stick so I was all right, but I looked like I had been shot at and hit with a barrel of scrap iron.

When I had let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and had put on my short britches and went down and talked the dummed brutes they were the only ones that didn't look surprized. It is kinda hard to surprize a cow. But the rest of the bunch looked surprized. They knew I had got shot in the face with a tin can, but they didn't know it had took as much as it had.

My upper lip was all puffed up, and my grandfatchr said I would make a good soldier, because a soldier has to keep a stiff upper lip and I wouldn't have any trouble doing that for quite a while. While we were feeding out faces my mother had feeble go to the drugstore and get some stuff and when I got done eating she painted all my hurts with it, and then I looked like I had been shot in the face with a bottle of red ink. I was the only one that anything happened to on the Fourth, and it wouldn't of happened to me only my father told me to look at the saints and see why it didn't go off. So he couldn't blame me. I am lucky.

When the bunch saw my face after my mother got through with it Bunny went to his house and got a bottle of red ink and met us at the tennis lot and painted the noses of the whole bunch with it, so that they looked prettier than me, and everybody looked at them instead of me, so it didn't do me much good to get all shot up after all. Rheumatism Kept Him In Constant Misery: He Says

Konjola Banished Every Ache and Pain, and Restored New Health and Energy

MR. ARTHUR F. BROWN

"I was in constant misery from rheumatism, but since taking Konjola my suffering is gone and I am glad to let others know about it," said Mr. Arthur F. Brown, 636 Homewood Avenue, Warren, Ohio.

"Rheumatism first settled in my right arm, but as the days passed it gradually became worse and spread throughout my body. Then both arms were affected and it was impossible for me to use them. Finally the pains settled in my legs and I couldn't even walk a short distance. I was very discouraged and had given up hope of being relieved.

"None of the medicines relieved me, but Konjola proved to be an exception. The first bottle began to help me and I noticed the aches and pains easing up. As I continued with the treatment every trace of rheumatism was driven from my body. My arms and limbs are now free and active and I can do my work and get around just as I did before."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

CHIEF CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY FRIDAY

McFarland To Observe Twenty-Fifth Year as Head of Departments

man to head the Marion fire department. He succeeded James Knapp. Thomas Bowen was the first chief of which there is any record, he was followed by Edward Huber who in turn was followed by William Fies and he by John Battenfield. Chief Knapp was the next in line.

Kept Pace With City.

When taken under his supervision by Chief McFarland in July 6, 1903, the fire department consisted of four men, four horses, a ladder truck and a combination hose cart and chemical engine. From this beginning, the department has kept pace with the growth of the city, due to the constant effort of the chief, until today the department includes 28 men, three stations, four pumpers and an aerial ladder. All of this has been made possible largely by the efforts of the chief.

From 40 to 60 calls a year was the usual record during the early years of the chief's administration and the losses varied in proportion. The smallest annual loss on record was $7,349 in 1907 while the greatest was in 1925 when the total reached $254,502.55.

The fire producing the greatest loss in the quarter of a century that Chief McFarland has headed the department, was the destruction of the Buick Garage on East Center st. in 1925 with a loss of $178,000.

Reviews Fires.

Going through his records recently the chief selected the following as the greatest fires during the 25 years. In 1904 the burning of the Marion Implement Co. on North Main st. with a loss of $10,000, a tremendous loss in that day, the chief pointed out; In 1908 the Uhler-Phillips Co. fire with a loss of $128,000; in 1909 the burning of the R. T. Lewis store and the Kling Hardware store with a loss of $15,000; In 1910 the Grand Opera house with a loss of $54,000; in 1914 the Olney Avenue school building with a loss of $20,000; in 1915 the Marion National Mills with a loss of $34,000; in 1921 the Hoch Bros. Motor Sales Co. with a loss of $22,000, the Bender-Lewis building with a loss of $16,000, the City Market on North State st. with a loss of $43,000 and the Harding Coaster Co. on Barnhart st. with a loss of $9,000; in 1923 the Ray Barnthouse storage building on Olney av. with a loss of $16,000; in 1925 the Robert Storaci building on North State st. with a loss of $16,000, the Nobil Shoe store with a loss of $10,000, and the pavilion at Lincoln park with a loss of $13,500; in 1926 the Buick garage on East Center st. with a loss of $178,000, the Studebaker garage on North Main st. with a loss of $38,000, the Boulevard Elevator with a loss of $40,000 and the Smith Mattress factory on Blaine av. with a loss of $10,000; in 1927 the Marion Grain and Supply Co., elevator on North Vine st. with a loss of $23,000.

WALDO CLUB MEETS

Vocational Group Holds Farewell for Senior Members of Department

The regular monthly meeting of the Waldo Vocational Agriculture Service club was held at the agriculture room in the high school Monday night. Fourteen members and the teacher were present. Ralph Bender, the newly-elected president, was in charge of the meeting, which was in the nature of a farewell meeting for the senior boys of the department.

The teacher, L. B. Fidler, gave a report of the individual and team placings at the annual vocational livestock judging contest which was held at the Ohio State university a few weeks ago. In this contest the Waldo Dairy team took second rank in the state, their score being just eight points, out of 1200 hundred, below the state winners. The grain judging team took sixth place in the state.

Plans were definitely laid for the annual joint picnic with the Waldo Young Men's Farming club which will be held in August. The matter of a project tour was discussed and it was unanimously decided that such a tour of the projects of the department should be held in the near future.

The club went on record as unanimously favoring a better sires better livestock campaign which should be conducted under plans to be secured from the United States department of agriculture. This project would pledge the farmers, who decided to cooperate, not to use any sire on their farms that was not a pure bred animal.

The meeting adjourned to meet August 8.

Leading Role in Tammany Rally Played by Al Smith; Defends Hall in Address

Democratic Nominee Given Great Ovation; Says Constitution Protects Minority from Majority; Talks at Voters' Reception

New York, July 5—Gov. Al Smith planned to return to Albany today after having played the leading role at an Independence Day rally in Tammany Hall and a first voters' reception at the city hall last night. It was to take part in these two affairs that the governor came to New York.

He was given an enthusiastic reception. There were eulogistic introductions of "the next president" and wild cheers for "Al." But, at each affair, the governor calmly deflected such enthusiasm and stuck to his own role—that of the principal speaker.

Tribute to Organization

At Tammany Hall the governor took occasion to pay a tribute to the organization which, years ago when he was a young man, sent him to Albany as an assemblyman.

"I have listened to a great deal of public and very caustic criticism of Tammany," said Governor Smith, "and I asked myself the question: 'How can anything live in this country 139 years that is not all right?'"

He read from the public announcement of the meeting a statement which deals with the equality of man as defined by the Declaration of Independence. Then he said:

"We do not care whether he is rich or poor, whether he walks up to Tammany Hall or whether he comes in an automobile. We want to know only one thing, and that is that he is a lover of American and in sympathy with the aims and purposes of the society to perpetuate the memory of Jefferson, the memory of Washington, the signing before the constitution that gave life and vitality to the declaration."

Talks on Citizenship

It was in a similar vein that the governor talked before freshly naturalized citizens massed before the city hall. He urged them to study the aims of both national political parties; to recognize their new responsibilities and, above all, to use their citizenship by voting.

"The constitution," he told them, "does an important thing—it protects the minority from the majority."

SWIMMING LESSONS SEEN AS VITAL NEED

State Official, Pointing to Death Toll, Urges Instruction in All Communities

Sacramento, July 5—Dr. Walter M. Dickie, director of the state department of public health, gives figures to show that for every girl between the ages of 15 and 19 years at least 10 boys were drowned during the last year.

Dr. Dickie believes every town where facilities for water sports are available should employ a public swimming instructor, civic bodies or clubs should shoulder the financial burden. He bases his recommendation on the appalling loss of life each vacation season.

With 70 percent of sports fatalities due to drowning, and nearly 25 per cent of all drowning, accidents linked with recreation, Dr. Dickie believes California, as the playground of the nation, must take the lead in making the water safe for youth and age alike.

"Knowledge of swimming should be considered as vital a part of education of those who frequent the water as anything in the school curriculum," the health mentor declared, impressed by the fact that while drowning fatalities were cut in half between 1900 and 1920, there has been no decrease since.

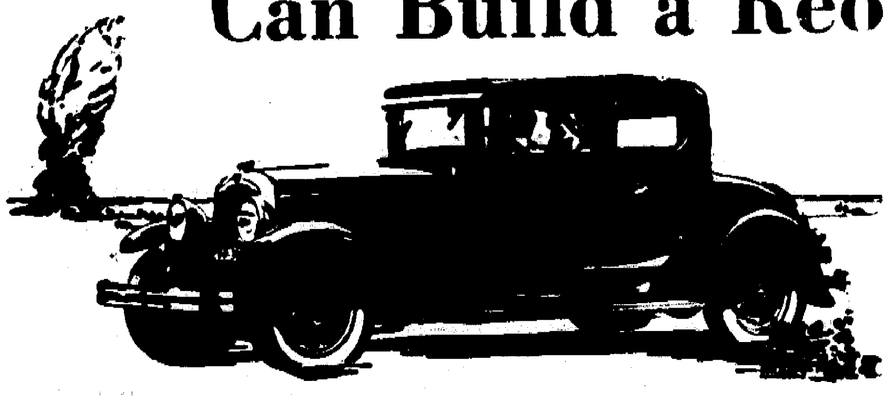
Why Only Reo Can Build a Reo



WHEREVER superior quality is a guarantee of finer performance, greater comfort, surer economy for the Reo owner, Reo builds of the best that money can buy. There has been no compromise with price.

No other car in or near Reo's price classes is so universally constructed of the finest that money can purchase.

And no other car, regardless of price, has built into it the faultlessness of design and the engineering excellence that are peculiarly Reo's own. Brains are, of course, no company's monopoly, but the brains that developed the 1929 Reo Flying Cloud so far in advance of its time are inevitably attracted to Reo—a place where honesty of purpose and engineering farsightedness are sure to bear fruit.

For Reo engineers are unhampered by the restrictions of a vast, immobile plant; Reo plans are carried out as projected without the restrictions imposed by indebtedness, and Reo products are honestly built in a plant noted for having the lowest rate of labor turnover in the industry.

These are the conditions which have made possible Reo's advanced engineering—which have attracted the best brains in the industry, brains that money alone could never buy.

BLIND STUDENT WINS COLLEGE LAW DEGREE

Boston, July 5—Aided by a Braille typewriter and volunteer readers, Stacy C. Saunders, blind law student, has acquired his law degree from Northeastern University, completing the course in the same time allotted to more physically fit students. Saunders is the father of two children and worked in the daytime while studying law at night. He taught in Maine, New Hampshire and Porto Rico before joining the executive staff of a concern here.

Saunders types all his examinations and treatises on the Braille and so does not suffer from inability to write long hand legibly. He also takes his notes on the typewriter.

FACTORY TO PRODUCE NEW AIRPLANE ENGINE

Cleveland, July 5—A factory for production of a new type of airplane engine which will burn oil is being planned for Cleveland for Alexander Winton, inventor and auto engineer.

Winton, who is 68 years of age, after several years of experimenting brought forth a radial oil burning airplane motor, the engine has been thoroughly tested and found efficient in every way, the engineer asserted.

The new type engine can start on on turn of the crank and is fired by compressed air, according to Winton. A new cylinder model has been running for two weeks, turning over 2,800 revolutions to the minute.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL

Industrial Accidents Claim Over 20,000 Annually, Survey Shows

Hartford, Conn., July 5—According to a recent survey by The United States Employes' Compensation Commission, more than 20,000 persons are killed in industrial accidents each year.

The mishaps that result in that great toll of human life from our "industrial wars" and the lesser injuries that also occur cost the people of the United States approximately $10,000,000,000 annually.

Just as preventative measures are being advocated constantly to outlaw war and thus save a tremendous loss in life, so can preventative measures be taken to reduce industrial accidents, the survey pointed out. A research by The Travelers Insurance Co into more than 70,000 industrial accident cases disclosed that 98 per cent of the total were preventable.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Adv.

Skin eruptions successfully treated from within

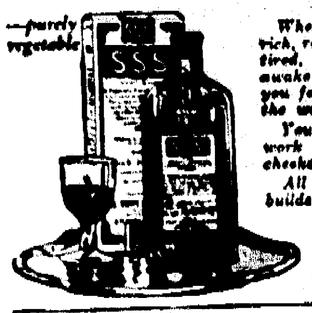
SKILLED physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red blood cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy."—Mrs. J. W. Barber, 1327 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.



—purely vegetable

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel, refreshed, ready to meet the world.

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

Cuticura Heals Severe Itching Burning Pimples

"My trouble started with pimples on my face. They were large, very red and hard. The itching and burning were very severe, causing loss of sleep. Some nights I had to sit up and scratch, and scratching caused eruptions that disfigured my face. The trouble lasted a couple of months.

"I tried other remedies but without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It seemed to help me so I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Ellen A. Cards Tabor, S. D., Feb. 1, 1928.

The unusual picture above shows the racing auto containing pretty May Cunliffe, girl race driver, turning over during the 100-mile event on the Southport Sands, England, recently. The figure hurtling from the car and about to be pinned under it is Miss Cunliffe's father, who was killed instantly. His daughter is expected to recover.

-o- The New Book -o-

By FRANCES JENNINGS

WHEREAS it's quite as interesting and agreeable reading matter as her earlier books, Mary Roberts Rinehart's new novel has not—as yet—met with the popularity one feels to be its due. "Two Flights Up" is a plain little story involving the elements of love and mystery.

The principal characters are three women, mother, daughter and sister, struggling against poverty in a brave effort to keep up the appearance of a fatherless family that has seen better days. They have their family skeleton—that some father who, when the story opens, is in prison serving a term for stealing funds to aid his women in maintaining a false air of social prestige.

The plot revolves around the bonds stolen by the convict before his imprisonment. The hero is a roomer who falls in love with the daughter of the house and aids her in solving the mystery.

Mrs. Rinehart is perhaps most famous for her earlier books, the "Tish" stories, "The Circular Staircase" and "Temperamental People" or for "The Bat", the sensational mystery story for which she collaborated with Avery Hopwood two years ago. Two of her recent books are "Lost Ecstasy" and "The Red Lamp." She was written over 20 volumes.

NOVEL PORTRAYS SOCIAL CHANGES

THE sudden rise of commoners to rank and position in London following the war, the uncomprehending selfishness of the so-called "emancipated" woman, and the subtleties of colonial administration are the social backgrounds for Douglas Jerrold's new novel, "Quex". He has mingled delegates from those categories of British classes to form what has been called an English "Babbitt".

Artemus Quex, his hero, or better, his protagonist, the son of an unsuccessful doctor, made his way from poverty to millions and a peerage. His methods were utterly unscrupulous. His final achievement cost lives and property. The public paid both duty and applauded him, while it mourned the losses he had voluntarily extorted. Quex's main principal was gain. It applied to money, perhaps, women. He was a mover and a chieftain. But he won.

Mr. Jerrold has produced a book that is not sugar-coated, but that is so like the life which he represents as to be strikingly interesting.

"THE RING FENCE" AN UNUSUAL STORY

THE setting of "The Ring Fence," Eden Phillpotts' novel to be published in this country by The MacMillan Co., next month, will be the lanes and hillsides and cozy farms of Devonshire, and it will be filled with what one of the characters calls "fine pantomimical situations." His theme deals with the cherished dream of Farmer Churchward to add the Widow Narracott's property to his own and put a ring fence around the two. He plans that his son shall marry Mrs. Narracott's daughter, and when he finds that the young people have quite different plans, his rage knows no bounds. But his unwelcome daughter-in-law wins him over and brings about the building of the ring fence at last. The amusing love affairs of a young fisherman enter into the story, as well as a number of other rivalries and entertaining episodes.

VOLUME TO CONTAIN FOUR WELLS NOVELS

WITHIN a few weeks H. G. Wells will publish a volume of more than 1,000 pages into which he has assembled "A Quartette of Comedies," comprising four of his novels, "Kipps," "Bealby," "The History of Mr. Polly," and "Love and Mr. Lewisham." In early fall he will publish a new novel entitled "Mr. Blettsworthy on Rampole Island." Rumor says it will be a story and nothing more containing no propaganda and no schemes of any sort for reforming the world and mankind.

DA VERONA BOOK SELECTED FOR JULY

AN Italian novel of an Italian society has been selected by E. P. Dutton & Co., as the Dutton Book-of-the-Month for July. It is Guido Da Verona's new book, "The Woman Who Invented Love." Like in the earlier novel by the same author, "Life Begins Tomorrow," the Nordic has been set to think with the Latin. Guido Da Verona's characters are meaningless—mere puppets, frames for holding beautiful and admirable emotions.

Is Santa Claus in the Tire Business?

We lose a sale occasionally because of a long trade, and we always ask the buyer if his old tires were worth what he got for them.

Invariably he says, no. We ask you, what's the answer?

Is Santa Claus in the tire business? Is the dealer merely practicing? Or did his big, tender, overflowing heart just get the best of him?

No foolin' now—what's the answer? Is Christmas a continuous event, or is someone keeping the doughnut and selling the hole?

Marion Wins First Game of Series With Mansfield, 7-3

NO ERRORS MADE IN CONTEST HERE; TWO HOME RUNS CLOUTED

Longshore Hurls Second Victory of Season; Given Fine Support

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

Marion Eagles got a toe hold on the first of a five-game series with Mansfield when the local aggregation won at Lincoln park yesterday afternoon, 7 to 3.

It was a great game in two ways. Neither team made any errors, the first time the trick has been turned this season, and Longshore hurled his second complete contest for a victory.

Both teams showed plenty of fireworks, a total of 22 hits being crashed out during the game. Two home runs were knocked by the Eagles.

Score Early

Marion scored two runs in each of the first three innings and the seventh tally in the eighth when Bacon clouted a circuit drive. Mansfield obtained one run in the fourth inning and two in the seventh.

Sunday the Marion nine will take a second crack at Mansfield, playing at Mansfield. Either Longshore or Charley Noel will do the hurling.

Although touched quite freely by Mansfield batters, Longshore pitched a fine game and was given great support. He was never in great danger of being overtaken after being spotted a big lead in the first three innings.

Unable To Bunch Hits

Mansfield was unable to bunch their 10 hits and only one of these blows was good for extra bases. Marion obtained one double and two three baggers in addition to two home runs.

Athletes From All Sections of Country Ready for Tryouts

Cambridge, Mass., July 5—Athletes from all sections of the country were here today waiting in the sweltering heat for the Olympic tryouts in Harvard stadium Friday and Saturday.

The scene was being shifted from Philadelphia where the 400-meter hurdles and decathlon events were staged. Trials on the program here Friday are:

The 100-meter hurdles, 1500-meter run, 3,000 meter steeplechase, 56-lb. weight shotput, running broad jump, hammer throw, javelin, discus, running hop, step and jump.

WILSON OVERTAKES RUTH'S HOMER RIVAL

Cub Outfielder Displaces Buster Gehrig in Circuit Drive Race

New York, July 5—Hack Wilson, Husky outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has displaced Buster Gehrig as Babe Ruth's leading home run rival. Wilson hit his eighteenth and nineteenth homers yesterday and is only 12 behind the Big Bam.

Sunny Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals walloped his seventeenth and eighteenth circuit clouts and tied Gehrig. Del Bissonette of Brooklyn got No. 16 and Joe Hauser of the A's hit his eleventh and twelfth after a long slump.

A dozen other sluggers celebrated the Fourth with giant four-base crackers. The cannonading yielded 19 homers, bringing the season's total for both leagues to 606 which is 130 more than had been hit at this time last year.

Lindstrom Stars

Another batting star of the day was Fred Lindstrom of the New York Giants, who got six hits in as many times at bat.

Cincinnati, the Athletics and the Phillies were the only teams to gain ground during the festivities. With Rixey and Kolp twirling the Reds scorched the Pirates twice, 6 to 0 and 11 to 3, and slid past the Cubs into third place.

The Athletics took both twins of a twin bill from the Red Sox, 5 to 4 and 11 to 3, and gained a game on the Yanks.

The Phillies swamped Boston, 10 to 6, but rain doused their ambition to get out of last place by winning the nightcap.

Leaders Break Even

All other teams broke even. Eight homers were made by the Cubs and Cardinals, and 14 pitchers took the air. The Cards won the opener, 11 to 6, but took a 16 to 9 beating in the nightcap.

Larry Benton subdued Brooklyn, 5 to 2, in a five-inning affair after Dazzy Vance had breezed home to an 8 to 3 win over the Giants. Brooklyn's victory cut New York's winning streak of eight games.

Jones' pitching and Barnes' homer enabled Washington to down the Yanks, 5 to 2. In the second game the Yankees landed on Brown for five runs in one inning, but just lasted to win by a 5 to 4 margin.

Young Ed Walsh, starting his big league career with his famous dad's team, the White Sox, was knocked by the St. Louis Browns in four innings. The Browns won, 11 to 8, but Al Thomas squared matters by blanking them 1 to 0 in the nightcap.

Detroit and Cleveland broke even.

PETE MYERS FLATTENS BERCOT IN TWO ROUNDS

PICKING U. S. SQUAD CAUSING TROUBLE TO OLYMPIC COACHES

Outstanding Opponent of America is Itself, Walsh Believes

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, July 5—Athletic America will spend the rest of the week trying to look first class passage on the President Roosevelt, official Olympic ship Amsterdam bound, and when you get right down to it, as one Irishwoman to another, that happens to be exactly our greatest trouble in international competition. Experts are busy at this moment, hovering between the selection of Germany or Finland as America's outstanding opponent at the Olympic games. They are wasting their time and yours. America's outstanding opponent is itself. It has too many first class athletes.

Morgan Taylor won the 400-metre hurdle trial yesterday in the almost incredible time of 52 seconds and all seven finalists defeated the accepted record of 53 4-5. Naturally, all seven should go to Amsterdam; only four of them will. And by the time the Olympics are on, it is possible that the second or third best 400-metre hurdler in America will be, unfortunately, in America. It is possible that he will be one of the three who are left at home.

Worked in 1924

It worked out that way in Paris in 1924 when Alfred Leconey was recognized as the fastest moving American sprinter in the Columbus stadium. Did he win? No, he did not; he didn't even run, except in one of the relays. He simply was "short" in the trials at Cambridge and didn't place but once. They got him abroad in a purely honorary position, which isn't being done this time. He found his running and was ready for the world. It was just his hard luck and the world wasn't ready for him.

This easily can happen again with all the sprinting stars we have this year—Bracey, Paddock, Simpson, Huesey, Wykoff, Scholz, Locke, Russell and possibly Borah, to mention only a few. Eight places are open in the two sprints and our top flight sprinters probably number as many as 20. If one of those mentioned above has an off day at Cambridge, he doesn't go with the team. Maybe the next time out, he will be undefeatable but they don't pay them. John Bunnans duly qualifies in the trials and we must stick with John for better or worse.

The thing isn't confined to sprinters or 400 metre hurdlers, either. We have a lot of neck and neck quarter milers—Barbuti, Tierney, Phillips, Spence, Alderman, Snider et al. Maybe the best man of the lot will be left at home because he failed to run his race this week. The time we want him to do it is August, of course, and the place, Amsterdam, but if he is off now, he will be out then.

CHRISTNER DEFEATS BELGIAN CHAMPION

Akron, July 5—K. O. Christner, Akron heavyweight, decisively outpointed Jack Humbreck, Belgian champion, in a 10-round bout at the Akron speedway Wednesday. Christner put up the best fight of his brief career, ripping into the European with a savagery that has say he never before displayed.

Humbeck took only one round, the tenth, when Christner, who was not in the best of condition, was too tired to put up more of a defense.

ANOTHER HOPE GONE

San Francisco, July 5—Another of "Winds" Winsett's hopes, Phil Flote, heavyweight, today had gone the way of most hopes. He was stretched out in one round here last night by Chet Shandel, a rangy, slugging boxy from San Bruno.

FOSTORIA HIGH FILES INJUNCTION IN COURT

Seeks To Have Suspension of School in Athletics Lifted

Fostoria, July 5—Granted a temporary injunction in Hancock county common pleas court restraining H. R. Townsend, Ohio high school athletic commissioner, and members of the state athletic board of control, from suspending Fostoria high school from activities in the state athletic association, the Fostoria board of education is preparing today to fight the action of the commissioner and the board.

Action of the Fostoria board was taken following the receipt of a letter from Townsend to Phillip E. Baird, principal of the school, stating that the school had been suspended until Jan. 1, 1929.

The injunction was issued in Hancock county, the residence of J. F. Matthews, member of the board. It was understood that Matthews has not voted that the other members consented to the action taken by Townsend.

The suspension of the Fostoria school followed alleged practices of Ralph Hogan, former athletic coach of Iowa state here, coach, and the board of education in bringing athletes from other schools to bolster athletic strength of the Fostoria team.

Hogan has since resigned to become coach at Toledo Libbey high school, and it is said he has been given a clean slate by the Ohio commissioner.

There are more chores than ever for a boy to do, but he gets paid for them now.

Faith, hope and charity don't amount to much unless they seem to be the sturdy accomplishing virtues.

REGATTA TRYOUTS SLATED FOR TODAY

Yale and California Favored To Clash in Final Event Saturday

Philadelphia, Pa., July 5 — Rowing comes into its own today when with Yale and California, foremost of the intercollegiate crews, and the Wyandotte B. C. of Detroit, national champions, tipping the list, the opening races in the Olympic tryout regatta will be held on the 2000-metre course on the Schuylkill river. The regatta will determine the crews which will wear the American shield in the Olympic rowing events at Amsterdam in the early days of August.

Yale and California appear to be so evenly matched that there is every indication that these two will clash in the final event on Saturday afternoon for the greatest prize the sport has to offer henceforth. But between now and then each will be required to face opposition of the stiffest sort from Columbia, Harvard and Princeton.

taken from beneath the stage and up to the rear room and on one but the officers himself knew the route was taken.

Mahaffey, testifying with Mayor Hartman on the witness stand, told of the visit of the Mayor and others and how he had been accosted by Mayor Hartman. He also denied that he struck Mayor Hartman, declaring that the latter struck him first.

Mahaffey told of the visit of the Mayor and others to his home and of the search of the premises. He denied that he had ever seen the gun which was found in the bushes and declared that he had never owned a gun.

competition with these speakers," the congressman declared.

Harding's address at the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial in Potomac Park was referred to by the speaker as another notable high spot in the former president's career as an orator and statesman.

"Marion is now, and always will be, on the map as the home of one of the nation's presidents," Mr. Burton said.

In addition to the tribute to Harding the Cleveland congressman spoke on topics of citizenship in relation to community, state and nation.

Busy Vacation

Congressman Burton came here from Magnetic Springs where he is spending a vacation. Although intended for a rest period, his time is being taken up to a large extent with addresses at different places in this section of the state. He spoke yesterday at a picnic of Jefferson county held at Magnetic Springs and today will be the speaker at a picnic meeting of the Marysville Kiwanis and Commercial clubs. Tonight he has an engagement to speak before a gathering of business men at the Park Hotel in Magnetic Springs. Farm legislation and other phases of the agricultural situation will be the subject for the Magnetic Springs talk.

Mr. Burton is a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator in the August primary and as a consequence his talk on farm problems will be of especial interest and importance.

The address of Congressman Burton today was the first of a series by prominent public men planned for Kiwanis club meetings here. Lieutenant Governor William Pickrel is on the program for July 10 and Myers Y. Cooper, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, will speak July 26.

Fletcher Presides

Congressman Burton was introduced at the luncheon today by R. F. Fletcher, chairman of the program committee, who declared that of all of the services rendered the nation by Mr. Burton in his forty years of public life, the greatest was the part he played in the promotion of international peace and good will.

In responding to the reference made to his part he has played in international peace, Congressman Burton said he has been interested in the cause of peace for many years and that he has come in contact with many prominent men throughout the world. "I do not claim any credit, however, for I was only able to do what I felt they was my duty to do, and what we have recommended," he said.

SUSPECT SUICIDE IN CAPITALIST'S DEATH

Theory Advanced After World's "Third Richest Man" Meets Tragic Fate

London, July 5—Belief was expressed in [illegible] circles this afternoon that Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, famous Belgian capitalist who [illegible] to his death from an airplane over the English channel may have committed suicide. It was understood that Loewenstein had been seeking big loans in both the United States and England, to prevent the loss of control of some of his vast enterprises, but failed to obtain them. Recently he was rumored in an attempt to gain control of the Bank of Brussels. He was said to be in an anxious state of mind when he left for Brussels yesterday.

EUROPE HORRIFIED

Tragic Disappearance of Capitalist Stirs Nations

Paris, July 5—All Europe was horrified today at the tragic disappearance of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, the Belgian millionaire who was reputed to be the third richest man in the world.

Loewenstein left the Croydon airfield in his private Fokker plane at 6 p. m. yesterday, accompanied by two women secretaries and his valet. While the plane was over the channel, the banker apparently went to the retiring room in the rear of the plane, but opened the wrong door and stepped into space.

He was missed by his companions when the plane was more than half way across the channel. The pilot of the plane brought the machine down on the sands of Dunkirk, on the coast of France.

Loewenstein was a mighty figure in European financial circles. His interests included steamship lines, railroads, mining properties, steel furnaces in Spain and rubber tracts in the Congo.

POLICE ESCORT HEADS GANGSTER'S CORTEGE

Heavy Guard Provided at Elaborate Funeral of Frankie Yale

New York, July 5—Frankie Yale, or Uale, his body torn by machine gun bullets and shotgun slugs, was laid to rest today with all the ostentation and ceremony befitting a master "racketeer" and gangster.

Thousands lined the streets in Brooklyn as the funeral cortege passed, with an escort of 30 motorcycle policemen riding in formation ahead of the hearse.

This is the first time in Brooklyn gang warfare that a machine gun has been used. Police believe this is additional evidence that the killing of Yale was done by Chicago gunmen. It is known that Yale had incurred the enmity of Scarface Al Capone, Chicago gangster.

There were 250 coaches, and 40 flower automobiles in the funeral procession.

Fifty detectives attended the funeral and mingled with the crowd. Some fifty persons visited Boyertown's funeral chapel last night to view the gangster's body.

FIND "SUICIDE" IN ARMY SERVICE

Los Angeles, Cal., July 5—That the suicide note left a year ago by Carmen Bright, young movie actor, was just a dramatic gesture, was revealed here today when it was learned that he is now serving as a soldier at Fort Sherman, Canal Zone.

Abandoning his automobile on the shores of the ocean, Bright left a note to his wife, who was visiting relatives, that he was going to swim out into the ocean until he was too tired to go on."

$41,968 SOUGHT FOR MUNICIPAL OPERATION

Kenton City Council Approves Budget; Duplicate is $10,500,000

Kenton, July 5—The City of Kenton is asking for $41,968 for operating expenses during the coming year according to the 1929 budget approved by the city council in its first July meeting.

The detailed budget completed by the council finance committee, headed by Councilman John Hogan, has been certified over to the Hardin County auditor for consideration and action by the county budget commission.

Included in the budget is $2,000 for the public library and $2,000 for the conservancy. The municipal waterworks department is self sustaining.

It is estimated that $24,000 will be received during the year from other sources such as inheritance tax, cigarette tax, fines and costs, interests on deposits, light rentals from railroads, the gasoline tax and the State Board of Health. The last item will amount to $1,000.

In addition to the amount sought by the city, the Board of Sinking Fund trustees is asking for $65,000.

The above amounts are asked on an estimated tax duplicate in the city of $10,500,000.

Last year the council asked for $43,000, however the budget commission cut this sum down to approximately $33,000 for the city's operating expense in 1928. The sum was cut on the grounds that the tax values in the city were low. The matter was taken up with state officials, however no relief could be provided or remedy suggested.

KENTON REDS BEAT LIMA CLUB, 14 TO 3

Ray Ferner Holds Crescents to Seven Hits in Holiday Game

Kenton, July 5—Hammering three pitchers all over the lot for a total of 16 hits, seven of which were doubles, the Kenton Reds beat the Lima Crescents by the overwhelming score of 14 to 3 at Lake Idlewild Park diamonds Wednesday.

Five errors by Lima players also contributed materially to their defeat. The visitors' three hurlers who met with disaster at the hands of the Red batsmen were Wright, R. Schaffter and W. Schaffter. Despite their every effort they were unable to halt the Reds who had an on day at the plate.

Ray Ferner, crack moundsman from the Columbus industrial league, did the hurling for Kenton, holding Lima to seven bingles. He struck out nine batsmen and failed to issue even one pass.

Earlier in the season the Crescents handed the Reds a grand walloping. A large holiday crowd Wednesday saw the tilt which, though it resolved itself into a one sided slugging fest, provided many thrills.

SERVICE WE GIVE

TODAY the funeral takes the form of today's most modern means and methods. Ways of the past are inadequate, inefficient, inadvisable. Selection of the mortician, then, should be so guided: the one best equipped and most up-to-date to best fulfill the requirements. Your debt to the one departed calls for such selection. Your own satisfaction, relief and comfort should urge it.

With that thought in mind we pledge a most assuring service: fully to your entire satisfaction, and mind's relief.

Professional Traders Dominate Transactions—Various Security Groups

By W. S. COUSINS
United News Service Financial Editor

New York, July 6—The influx of funds into the call loan market for the week covering of stocks sold over a wide range, with considerable advances in prices. During the first three hours was the largest in volume as in any period on Tuesday. The selling movement was directed by professional operators in the motor, oil and rail groups, which were the favorite professionals and thus the object of operation by the outside public.

Loans Placed at 6 Per Cent

The call loan renewal rate was 6 per cent, but such a flood of funds poured into the financial district that a large number of trade banks and loans of various kinds were promptly put

FIREMEN SPEND DAY IN PRACTICE WORK

No Calls Received by Local Stations Over Fourth of July

Instead of spending the day racing from one part of the city to another to extinguish fires started by fireworks as was the custom for many years, city firemen spent yesterday in practice work.

The apparatus from the Nos. 2 and 3 stations were stationed at central station and a large part of the day was spent by the firemen in checking up their speed in making hose connections with the fire hydrant and laying lines.

The practice work was carried out in front of the central station and in the afternoon aerial ladder drill was a feature of the program. The men were also instructed in the use of the various types of nozzles and in other fighting equipment.

Not a call was received during the entire day to mar the drill practice.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF MARKET SITUATION

Chicago, July 5—Wheat and rye are two grains that are likely to attract a good deal of attention within the next week or 10 days. These markets have been drifting for some time and have disgusted most of those who were bullish.

Technically rye would seem to be in a position from which they can advance after easily on the development of new crop that will stimulate buying. For a long time there has been little outside trade. Local sentiment has been extremely bearish but the markets have acted as if accumulation had been steadily going on.

There is about the only way to account for the fact that prices have advanced slowly and uncertainly some four cents from the bottom touched to couple after the big bull advance of the late spring.

Wheat May Be Oversold

The U. S. Grain Futures Administration says it is open interest in wheat at the end of June, 86,402,000 bushels. This means that much stands to short account in the future market and the same is not to big account.

Assuming that the whole United States wheat crop of wheat about 200,000,000 bushels is hedged in the Chicago future alone as an addition to that a total interest of over 47,000,000 bus.

It must be remembered of course that for every short there is a long.

It is the fact that the market is down near the bottom of a break of about 35 cents that makes the technical position sound. The biggest part of this long interest is now in seasoned is presumed, is long at prices around the present level.

If this report is the accumulation of wheat referred to above, it is the basis for buying on a scale up when the market has to develop strength.

Prices Under Last Year

The reason for accumulating wheat at around the present level is obvious. Wheat is now selling below the price level at this time last year in face of the prospect that the United States will raise this year at least 100,000,000 bushels less wheat than it did in 1925.

Temporarily the domestic situation is overlooked in contemplation of the big supplies and big new crop in prospect in Canada. But ultimately the domestic situation will become a dominant influence, if for no other reason than that it is closer to our market.

The foreign wheat situation does not appear to be bearish. World's wheat production this year excluding Russia and China now appears likely to be some 200,000,000 bushels less than last year. In both Russia and China famine conditions have been reported in large areas for weeks past.

Ella Van Horsen who holds the title of "Miss Universe" gives Mr. Televox, mechanical man a light. Mr. Televox is a clever fellow. Finding such tasks as operating a vacuum cleaner, blowing a horn and ringing a bell very simple matters, even though he has no brains.

City Raises Big Fund For Family of Slain Officer

Kansas City, Mo., July 5.—A smile will go a long, long way," and Kansas City policemen have reached that sturdy page.

James A. Smith was an element of cheer in a local office building, and because of his cheerful countenance and occasional smiles he won the title of "Smilin' Jim" and later that of "Happy."

Grown to manhood "Happy" joined the police force here and carried his smiles with his despite all hardships and dangers connected with the job.

For several years Smith was the traffic patrolman at one of Kansas City's busiest intersections. His pleasant disposition and demeanor toward everyone with whom he came in contact, regardless of race or creed, right or wrong as they might be in traffic won for him a reputation which spread into many states.

Killed By Bandits

While thousands of persons were crowding Pershing best exercise to the Republican National Convention during Smith's quiet stand a daylight robbery at a bank a half block from the policeman's post.

As the traffic officer rushed to the scene the bandits, armed with machine gun rifles, shotguns and revolvers, shot him down amid hundreds of persons on the busy street. Another policeman and three innocent bystanders were marked with the bandits' bullets.

A few hours later Happy died. For hours the police department was on a rush with thousands of calls coming about the officer. Many were from employers and stenographers who worked near Happy, while others were from people in all walks of life.

How is Happy—I didn't know him personally, but of course I've heard of him—you would say.

Thousands of citizens braved a steady downpour of rain to attend his funeral.

Then someone suggested a fund for his family, including his wife and five young children.

No sooner said than done. Public subscriptions were received by newspapers and a box was erected near where the officer was slain. Offerings came by mail from many distant cities where the officer's name had been spread.

Benefit Shows Help

Will Rogers, the famous cowboy-humorist, was in Kansas City attending the convention, and gave a special performance with the entire proceeds going to the policeman's family.

Other credit shows were given. On one occasion the employees of several downtown stores gave a special midnight show, which was attended by about 4,000 persons.

A total of nearly $25,000 was added to a $5,000 life insurance policy of Smith's, should place the family on a substantial basis for many years.

This, however, was not enough to relieve the smiles. Workmen are busily engaged in erecting a new home for the family, all materials, gratuitously donated.

DENVER BANS BAD FLIVVER MOTTOES

No Suggestive Inscriptions To Appear on "Collegiate" Cars, Chief Rules

Denver.—July. Chief of Police R. Fred Reed has decided that the "Collegiate Fliver" must leave the streets of Denver if it is emblazoned with any suggestive mottoes.

The chief said he could overlook some of the minor wisecracks and wouldn't even inquire as to the source of red lanterns that are to be found on the back of many a "collegiate four." It has been rumored around fraternity houses that the highway department of Denver is minus a few of its warning signs, and according to some fraternity men the tail light on the "blunder busses" might have once adorned some innocent culvert.

Indications are that the townspeople's morals are to be protected from the ever flaming collegiate circle, which generally is a group of high school students.

Recently a patrolman found a crowd of over 100 persons inspecting a dilapidated car of the class of '16 with many suggestive slogans and drawings on it. He hailed the car and sent it to the city garage.

When the boy owners, high school youths from Los Angeles, appeared to say that the car was theirs and that they wanted it, Deputy Chief of Police Williams lectured them severly, made them clean up the car and then the youths departed for parts unknown.

COOLIDGE GETS FIRST OF NEW TOMATO CROP

Cleveland, O.—A grower of Brooklyn, O., a Cleveland suburb, recently shipped via plane to President Calvin Coolidge at Brule, Wis., a basket of early tomatoes, first pick of the first crop ever raised by a new process which employs forced air circulation in greenhouses as a means of producing faster ripening of fruits and vegetables raised under glass. It is also stated that it strongly increases the yield per plant, improves the quality of the crop, saves labor, and eliminates the deadly "leaf mold" disease which causes thousands of dollars loss to fruit growers all over the country every year.

"As she sat there, alone, defenseless, unable to answer the terrible charges hurled against her, it seemed that her hurt, crushed heart could bear no more. Was this the reward of true and loyal love? Were self-sacrifice and devotion, after all, only a hollow mockery?" (From "The No-Account Girl," August True Story Magazine.)

They called her a soulless "gold-digger" but—

DO you remember the sensational breach of promise suit instigated a few years ago by a humble flower-girl against her young millionaire lover and his wealthy mother?

Because of the obscurity of the girl and the social prominence of mother and son, the trial attracted countrywide attention.

Certainly no girl, cringing in piteous terror under the lash of cross-examination, ever strove more desperately to answer the ugly charges hurled at her by a merciless opposing counsel.

"Gold-digger! Blackmailer!" her persecutor shouted. "A woman without a shred of honor! An unprincipled wanton who makes a mock of marriage—who knows only one kind of love—the love of money and the luxury money can buy!"

Money! They thought she wanted money! As if money could ever buy back the priceless happiness that had been snatched from her by cunning and trickery.

Dimly, through a mist of tears, she saw before her that proud, grim-lipped, haughty mother. There, too, she saw the white, set face of the son—the boy she had loved, and still loved, with every nerve and fiber of her body.

And then her turn came. In a voice broken by sobs, she told her pitiful story—the story of her poor little romance that now was dead.

As the wretched details unfolded under her attorney's gentle questioning, men hardened to sorrow wiped their eyes furtively—women in the court-room wept aloud.

Then came that sudden and dramatic conclusion. An unexpected witness appeared—and in ten words hurled into the tense silence of the crowded court-room a veritable bombshell.

Most people, stunned by the unexpected outcome of the trial, dismissed the matter as finished when the principals in the tragedy vanished from the public eye. Even today few suspect the true history of events behind that tremendous drama of intrigue, suffering and deathless love.

But now, for the first time, the entire story has been told by the girl who was the central figure in that amazing drama. Told in words that will bring tears to your eyes—tears of joy, of sorrow, of understanding and sympathy.

Straight-from-the-Heart Stories of Life

HOW many stories lie hidden in the hearts of men and women—stories that ordinarily they do not tell! What a sensation they might create if they were to reveal the secrets they guard so jealously.

Sometimes, however, in their desire to help others, they find the courage to disclose their experiences, hiding only their identities under fictitious names. These stories, told straight from the heart, fascinate, thrill, inspire, as mere fiction can never do. Sometimes these revelations startle with their frankness, but they never fail to carry a helpful message to readers everywhere.

Isn't that just about 100 per cent. true?

Treasury Estimates and Figures.

Even those who recognized that the many congressional attacks during the last session of congress on the accuracy of the treasury department's estimates of probable receipts and expenditures were for partisan purposes, it must have surprised them to learn how marvelously accurate Secretary Mellon's figures really proved.

The secretary's report showed that the surplus on hand at the end of the fiscal year 1928, June 31, was $398,000,000, within $7,000,000 of the $405,000,000 estimate made by him almost a year ago. Of this, the sum of $367,000,000 was applied to the national debt which, with previous payments during the year, made a total cut during the twelve-month period of $507,000,000, bringing the debt down to $17,604,000,000. The remainder of the surplus was carried over.

The total ordinary receipts were $4,042,000,000 against the secretary's estimate of $4,076,000,000 made last October, and the expenditures were $3,644,000,000, whereas the budget estimate was $3,621,000,000. The income tax receipts were $2,171,000,000 against the estimate of $2,165,000,000. In this connection Secretary Mellon says:

"In view of the amount of discussion that has taken place as to the accuracy of the treasury's estimate of income taxes, it is worthy of note that, with collections aggregating over $2,000,000,000, they exceeded estimates by the narrow margin of $9,000,000, or an error of .42 of one per cent."

An interesting phase of the report was the secretary's statement regarding interest charges and the saving effected as the result of the paying off or refunding of government securities, the refunding accomplishing a reduction in the interest rate from 3.90 per cent. at the close of the preceding fiscal year to 3.87 per cent.

"Total interest payments in the fiscal year 1928 were $732,000,000, as compared with $787,000,000 in 1927, or a reduction of $55,000,000," the statement showed.

"During the course of the eighteen months beginning March 15, 1927, and ended on September 15, 1928, the treasury will have retired or refunded into securities bearing a lower rate of interest over $5,000,000,000 of second and third Liberty loan bonds."

In the light of the wonderful record of accomplishment made by Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury it is decidedly hard to understand how his foes have the effrontery to attack his administration of the treasury department, but even that is more easily understood than the folly of those who criticize his figures and question his estimates. One might think that, in time, even they might learn.

The Hope of Obregon.

While some of the methods pursued in furthering the return of General Alvaro Obregon to the Mexican presidency will not bear inspection, there can be little question but what his election last Sunday will work for stability of government and national development in Mexico and tend to prolong, and probably more fully develop, the friendly relations at present existing between that country and the United States.

Having in mind the presidency which General Porfirio Diaz developed into what was practically a dictatorship under which he held the reins of government for over three decades, the Mexican congress passed an amendment, which was ratified by the various state legislative bodies, which provides that presidents may not serve two terms. This provision General Obregon and his followers construed to mean two terms in succession, and the general prospect is for upon the election of the present president, General Plutarco Elias Calles, who will have served a full term when succeeded by General Obregon December 1. There is every indication that Obregon and Calles acted in concert in this arrangement, and it has been charged in Mexico that the two plan to prolong it, holding the office in rotation—an arrangement which doesn't often appeal to electorates down there any more than on this side of the Rio Grande.

The Obregon candidacy for a second term was opposed by two other candidates for the presidency, General Gomez and General Serrano, who held out that it was unconstitutional for a president to serve more than one term. Their opposition led to a revolt, real or alleged, and each was shot by a federal firing squad. Thus Obregon was left the only candidate for the presidency.

Obregon is recognized as the strongest man to serve Mexico as chief executive since Diaz and far more devoted to his country's advancement than the one-time dictator. He is sane in his ideas and liberal in his thoughts. He has pledged himself to the bringing about of harmony in his own land and with his neighbors and promises religious freedom on a neutral basis of noninterference between church and state. The various amendments to the constitution proposed by him have already been ratified by a sufficient number of the states of Mexico to make them laws. One of them cuts the representation of 300 federal deputies to 150. Another repeals the law for the election of judges of the federal supreme court, making them elective offices, the president having the power of appointment. The third amendment provides for the establishment of federal commissions instead of elected mayors and boards of aldermen as municipal governments in Mexico City and other towns in the Mexico City federal district. The two amendments last mentioned, which make the Mexican constitution practically the same as our own in the matter of the selection of supreme court judges and the government of the district in which the capital is located, greatly add to the presidential powers.

The last-named measure is expected greatly to diminish the power of Luis Morones, secretary of industry, commerce and labor, Obregon's political enemy. The Labor party, directed by Morones, has heretofore controlled these governments, which will now pass into the hands of General Obregon's own political organization.

As his supporters are in control of both the federal senate and the chamber of deputies, as well as in control of the great majority of the state legislatures, General Obregon will wield an influence in Mexico such as was not within his power during his first term in the presidency. Let us hope that he will utilize it to accomplish his desire to advance Mexico "in the esteem and good will of our next-door neighbor and of the entire civilized world."

David Lloyd George is authority for the statement that brewing is the only English industry more prosperous today than it was before the World war, the annual profits being now $125,000,000 to $50,000,000 before the war. Naturally we may anticipate announcements, from time to time, that this Republican has bolted Hoover or that Democrat has bolted Smith. We have the publicity-seekers with us always, but they are particularly active in presidential years.

Over in Turkey, a stray item tells us, the blind wear white ribbons on their hats that they may not be run down by motorists, the deaf wear yellow and the dumb wear red, and we suppose that, should the plan ever obtain over here, the motorists would insist that we true aristocrats of the land wear red, just to add to the humiliation we are already made to suffer.

A Vienna court has refused Count Michael Karolyi the right to take advantage of the pauper's act, holding that the act could not apply to the cases of those who travel about and live in expensive cities like London, Paris and New York. But in the smaller cities the count might not be able to locate any snobbish Americans with social ambitions desirous of "entertaining" a count.

An American woman was held up by a masked robber, who entered the first-class compartment which she was occupying alone just as the train was getting under way out of a Paris station, robbed her of the money she carried and the diamonds she wore, and escaped. It's getting so that it's almost as risky to travel in the vicinity of Paris as it is in the environs of some cities of our own land. But why invite robbery anywhere by wearing diamonds on trains?

WHEN ONE SWIMMING HOLE DRIES UP.

To Lengthen Years.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Persons past fifty years of age should not overlook the importance of submitting to periodical examination of the urine. "A stitch in time saves nine," it is said, and certainly the early discovery of kidney trouble leads to successful treatment for overcoming it.

So often have I told you the way to cure disease is to avoid it that I suppose you get sick and tired of my preaching. You will tolerate me, however, when you recall that I am trying to make you live to be a hundred.

Isn't it funny how people differ on whether they want to live to be old or not? Next time you have occasion to speak to a group of little boys or girls, ask for a show of hands on living to be a hundred. Not one hand will be raised.

Ask the same question of a group of men and women past sixty. Every single person will vote yes.

If you really want to live to be a hundred, you must take care of your health. You must not wait for the ugly symptoms of disease to gnaw at your vitals. You must anticipate events and seek by early attention to head off serious illness.

In this end, periodical examinations of the urine are tremendously important. Conditions found will guide your doctor in giving advice and medication.

It is not normal to have blood in the urine. It is an important symptom. It is not a disease—it is merely one of the marks of one of various conditions which require attention.

There may be a lot of blood, actually coloring the urine, or there may be just the slightest pigment. It may make the urine smoky, or there may be a deep red color. There may be clots of blood. It may be present all the time, or only on occasions.

In inflammation of the kidney, there may be marked congestion and occasional bleeding. Following a hard blow across the back there may be blood in the urine. This is due to a broken blood vessel, of course.

The blood may not come from the kidneys at all. It may be due to trouble in the tube leading from the kidney to the bladder. It may be in the bladder, or the passage way to the exterior from the bladder may have a damaged surface.

If changes in the urine such as I have described are noticed, it is your duty to take a sample to the doctor at once. By making certain tests he will decide if blood is really present and if it is, from what part of the urinary system it comes. By chemical, physical, X-ray and microscopical means he will decide what is wrong with you.

As in all troubles where bleeding is a symptom, quiet is important. Go to bed and keep still till your doctor passes judgment. He will give you the correct treatment to put you on your feet.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

T. Y. Q—What causes the heart to pound rapidly especially after eating, more so in the morning?

A—Probably due to indigestion. Although a nervous condition may also be causing some of the trouble. Correct your diet, avoid overeating, and be sure that the system is kept clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. R. S. Q—What causes my little seven-year-old girl's eyes to dilate? Sometimes the pupils are very small and then suddenly they become larger.

A—This is natural. You have no cause for worry.

A. D. S. Q—What do you advise for overcoming the smoking habit?

A—This requires will power. When your will power fails you try having your doctor paint your throat with a two per cent. solution of silver nitrate and smoke immediately after.

A. R. Q—What can be done for a girl of seven who grits her teeth at night, very nervous and who has dark circles beneath the eyes. She is very irritable and has an enormous appetite both at meal time and between meals?

A—Probably has intestinal worms. Examination of the stool will determine whether or not this is so, and the requisite treatment can be advised. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Comment.

THE REAL AND THE SPURIOUS.

The treasury closed the fiscal year 1927-28 with a surplus of about $900,000,000. This has been applied automatically to the extinction of debt—a process which has gone along since July 1, 1921, at the rate of nearly a billion a year. Under the Harding and Coolidge administrations the debt has been reduced by $6,027,000,000, and an annual interest saving of $265,000,000 has been effected through amortizations and refundings. In the same period taxes have been cut three times.

The Houston platform promises about these results. It hints cautiously that debt extinction has been overdone and ought to be limited absolutely to the sums set aside in the sinking fund. That is a theory sometimes advanced by Democrats in congress, but never taken seriously in either the house or the senate. Debt reduction means tax reduction. It means the transfer of capital on which the government is paying interest to productive business purposes. It is a measure of national self-defense, since credit and debt extinction are essential elements in national preparedness.

Secretary Hoover has sat continuously in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets. He is associated with the superb economic achievement of the last seven years. He is pledged to continue the Coolidge policies of economy in expenditure, debt extinction and tax reduction. His opponent, Governor Smith, has steadily championed in this state the opposite policies of enlarged expenditures and expansion of the state debt. Appropriations here have increased nearly 200 per cent. since 1917 and mounting state revenues have not been applied to wiping out debt or permanently lightening tax burdens. The treasury surpluses of one year have gone into the fund available for current expenditures in the following year. State and county municipal extravagance is still unchecked. Between 1921 and 1927 federal expenditure was lowered by $2,000,000,000, but state, county and municipal expenditure was boosted by $3,500,000,000.

The annual federal accounting, with its surplus of $405,000,000, comes opportunely to confront the claims and theories of the Democratic national platform and to accentuate the contrast between federal financing and Governor Smith's practice. The people are enthusiastically behind the Coolidge-Mellon program, and their faith in it is not to be shaken either by the Houston platform's declamation or by the example of speculative spending and multiplication of liabilities set by Mr. Smith.—New York Herald Tribune.

VIVE HUGHES!

Sweden has placed the name of Charles Evans Hughes in nomination as successor to John Bassett Moore on the World Court of International Justice.

Mr. Hughes on the court would be eminently satisfactory to Americans. There isn't a slur in character, ability and patriotism his superior in the major services of international statesmanship.

Mr. Hughes deservingly stands high in the estimation of the leaders of public thought and of administration in every country in the world. And yet Charles Evans Hughes is not an internationalist, has no sympathy with those who would see this government in the League of Nations and the World court except in such relation as beyond all question recognizes and establishes American national sovereignty.

John Bassett Moore was a good man for America in this distinguished position, but he became impressed with the fact that other nations were increasingly quite willing to give this country something less than a square deal in every respect. This realization had something to do with his resignation, recently tendered.

The former secretary of state of the United States possibly may find himself in disagreement with his colleagues in the court, or with their interpretations of the court's mandates of authority, but it may be taken to be absolutely certain that, whatever the situation, the interests of this government and people will be conserved and protected in his capable hands should he assume the duties of the high office now proffered to him, which he doubtless will find it expedient to do.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Stellar Democracy.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The [illegible] Reading of the Englewood, New Jersey, high school asked me to answer the following [illegible].

We [illegible] that all the planets and asteroids revolve around the sun and we would like to receive [illegible] sun revolves around. As far [illegible] we [illegible] the sun is traveling around the [illegible] constellation Lyra. Will you kindly give us further information on this subject?

As far as astronomers can tell from any observations hitherto made, the sun is not travelling around any fixed center. The path that it [illegible] purpose through space appears to be straight. This apparently [illegible] from the enormous size of its orbit—if it has an orbit—just as the surface of a pond appears perfectly level, although it must, in fact, be curved as a part of the earth's globular surface. If the sun's motion were in a definite orbit many thousands of miles in diameter a long series of observations would be needed to detect the curvature, and such detection would be hampered by the great uncertainties of observation. These uncertainties are now so troublesome that no two determinations of the direction of the sun's motion are exactly in accordance, and one might be tempted to suspect from their inconsistencies that the direction was capriciously variable.

Whatever is true of the sun in this respect must be true of the other stars, for they are all in motion—but at different speeds and in different directions. They certainly are not, as far as observation shows, all traveling around a common fixed center, as the planets travel around the sun. But there are indications that the starry universe to which we belong—meaning the vast assemblage of stars of which the Milky way forms the ground plan, or skeleton—may have a general revolution just as a great cloud of whirling dust, in which the individual particles are swept into eddies and carried in different directions by conflicting currents, may revolve as a whole around its central part.

There are, indeed, indications of the location of the center—in this sense—of the galactic system. It appears to lie in that direction in which the Milky way looks most luminous on summer nights, far above the southern horizon. There are seen the bright constellations Scorpio, Ophiuchus and Sagittarius, rendered more lustrous by the shimmering radiance of the faraway star region of space which serves as a background for their brighter stars.

All the stars and other celestial objects that we see, except perhaps the mysterious spiral nebulæ which may be forming universes comparable in size with our own, like one [illegible] in a mass of gas, but which are [illegible] controlled by no central body, after the manner of the planetary system, but rule [illegible] their multitudinous [illegible] one another.

In the earlier days of astronomy the supposition was entertained for a time that a real central body, a central sun, might exist around which all other stars revolved in [illegible] of unparalleled size, and at the same time the brightest of the group, [illegible] Pleiades, was imagined actually to be the [illegible] center. But it was very soon seen that this was a mistake; that [illegible] motion [illegible] the stars constitute, apparently, a vast [illegible] in which there are great and small, superior and inferior, but no king over all.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 5 — Gilb tongues so responsive to trigger minds in private are often mute in public. With the customary few exceptions, the most intellectual New Yorkers are "flops" as after-dinner speakers. When called upon suddenly, they flounder in helpless despair.

An elocution teacher, who has taught many to make finished talks, is unable himself to rise to the occasion. Oratory is a tricky art at best. Many who have had a forensic flair for years suddenly face an audience bereft of speech and rarely are they able to gain control of themselves again.

Peculiarly enough, men always ready and anxious to make a speech upon any subject at any occasion are rarely finished speakers. They are merely yappers who have mistaken windiness for oratory. The best speakers are those who have an inherent timidity for public speaking.

Broadway, for instance, has numerous wisecracking wits who enliven banquets with keen shafts of satire, but generally at the expense of some one's sensibilities. They wound feelings for a laugh and are never those whose speeches are remembered.

There is a well-known editor whose duties made it imperative to attend dinners of a political nature. When introduced, he would turn red, make a bow and sit down in confusion. Banqueteers looked upon him grimly and wondered a little just why he came.

About a year ago as he sat in torture again awaiting his turn to make a spectacle of himself, he suddenly reasoned he certainly had an intellectual equipment to compare with any one present and could express himself in print far better than they.

Too, he had conversed at one time or another with every man present. In the midst of these reflections he was called upon. He stood for a few seconds for his head to clear and decided to forget every one present and address his remarks solely to an intimate friend present. His speech was eloquent. He had broken the spell.

The most astonishing orator to me was W. J. Bryan. It was not so much what he said but his dramatic delivery—his manner of whipping a whisper into a roar. He was often called a mountebank, but it was difficult to hear his speeches and doubt his sincerity. He may have been wrong, but he had the eloquence of one who feels he is right.

One of New York's most gifted after-dinner speakers was the late Rennold Wolf, a dramatic critic. He had the sublime gift of choking off a sob with a hearty laugh. And he would never speak for more than ten minutes.

A Greenwich Village snooper reports that one of the dreamy poets has a lavender complex. His typewriter is tinted lavender, the smock he wears in the throes of creation is of the same hue, the studio is flooded with lavender light and so on. In our crochety mean way we'd like to sneak into his bed-room some day and dye his powder puff yellow just to spoil the effect.

There is only one drawback for those poor souls suffering with complexes, inhibitions and such. No one ever prints their poems. — Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Did you ever stop to think how largely we are made up of two things: the people we have met and the books we have read? We ought to be pretty careful about both.

Civilization has been defined as the [illegible] spring of knowledge and love. How much each have we to give? We ought to check up on that.

Many think much about immortality and [illegible] thought that they may live in some fashion forever. And yet in one way some of us might live too long. It is a tragedy for the body to live on when the spirit has gone or when the character is degenerating. The death of the body is not always concurrent with the death of the spirit.

Frank Collins Spillman tells us the difference between young men and old men is that the Bible he reads that the young men shall see visions and the old men shall dream dreams. If you have come to the time when you only dream dreams and see no visions of the future you are old. When you look back over your shoulder instead of forward you are old.

Some one has said that it is hard to meet the average mind because it isn't going anywhere. The difference between real thinking and reverie is that reverie isn't going anywhere. Just letting things run through your mind, ungoverned, isn't thinking. Life is too short not to be going somewhere.

• • •

We can be rich—rich in the resources of the mind, if we will only take the time and trouble to lay away some mental wealth in our more active mental years.

• • •

We may not have two dimes to rub together. If we haven't we are out of luck. But the saddest pauper is he who hasn't two ideas to rub together.

• • •

Much talk as to whether teachers should be young, old, married, unmarried, male or female. Remember that the best education always filters through personality. The best education, like character, is caught, not taught. Let's be particular about teachers—but let's not be particular about non-essentials.

Dinner Stories.

Mrs. Peck—"Henry, did you see anything in the paper about Mr. Blinker running off his mother-in-law?"

Peck—"Not yet. I haven't come to the sporting news."

"Oh, miss, I have made a mistake in your passport. I have put your hair down as fair and it is dark."

"Oh, that is too bad! Will you rectify it or shall I?"

• • •

Caller—"I have here the scenario for a distinctly novel film. It is a simple story woven around the life of a sexton."

Movie Magnate—"Ah, that's the stuff we want. Anything goes that's got ups in it."

THEY CHASE AWAY GLOOM

Their business is to make two laughs grow where only one grew before, and these funny rascals are very skillful at extracting grins, chuckles and screams of laughter from the patrons of John Robinson's Circus. The "Merry Andrews" with the Robinson Circus are noted for their clean comedy, and also for their efforts at pleasing the little tots, the management always insisting on only the best in clowning.

Half a hundreds "joeys" find employment with John Robinson's Circus, which comes to Marion on Saturday, July 14. Heading the list are Slivers Johnson, George Harmon, George Cook, Doc Strickland, Joe Wilde, Jack Kelley, Harold Nicholson, Charles Fenton, Jimmy O'Donnell, Charley Fisher, Konoppa Brothers, Lee Celman and others.

REVIVALIST IS CHARGED WITH DESERTING FAMILY

Atlanta, Ga.—At the conclusion of a three weeks' revival here Evangelist Joseph Blalock finds himself facing a charge of deserting his wife and three children. He is being held in Fulton tower in default of $300 bond.

On the night his revival closed Blalock declared he met his estranged wife near the tent in which he had been holding services and an altercation is said to have occurred.

During this Blalock said his wife attacked him, but his wife denies the charge.

EMIGRATION TO U. S. REDUCES FARM HELP

Oslo.—Emigration to the United States is largely responsible for the difficulties Norwegian farmers generally experience in cultivating their soil.

Because large numbers of young Norwegians couldn't resist the strong appeal of the opportunities of "God's own country" Norwegian agriculture is now suffering from a serious shortage of experienced farmhands which may even fatally influence this year's harvest.

DITCH ASSESSMENTS READY FOR PAYMENT

Property Owners May Save Interest by Paying Before July 11

Payment of assessments on the Quigg ditch before July 11 will mean a considerable saving in interest to property owners along the route of the ditch according to Earl E. Thomas, county auditor.

The list of assessments has been completed by Clyde Caldwell, deputy county surveyor, and was turned over to the county auditor today.

To receive the benefit of the savings in interest payments must be made at the county auditor's office on or before July 11, it was said by the officials today.

Ritzy Rosalie

Framed in the window of the old log cabin, Rosalie is unconsciously provided with an appropriate setting for the display of her new sports ensemble. The most novel feature of this is the sombrero with the gilt buckle, which is adjustable. Although many shapes and designs are obtainable, Rosalie's is of Roman striped ratteen, matching her tie and belt.

A Word from Mr. Jenner

We do not often have sales at the Jenner Co., but when we do we aim to make it a real event. You know as well as I do that this has been a backward Spring, and it is no use to disguise the fact that we are heavily stocked with merchandise that should have been sold out several weeks ago—and would have been had the weather been at all favorable. So now the first hot days find us loaded to the guards with thousands of dollars worth of summer merchandise and a short season left to sell it in, so we simply have to plan to make every day's business during July and August just about twice as big as we usually have to figure on. So we call this big summer sale of ours the "50-50" Sale. We meet you half way in slashing profits—in cutting our margins down to rock bottom without regard to overhead and in many cases without reference to first cost. And we know that it will be to your self interest to meet us 50-50 and carry away this mountain of choice new merchandise at real 50-50 prices.
